A Word to the Wise.

He—Won't you come out rowing with me?

She—O, I don't dare to!

He—Why, it's all right if you sit perfectly still.

She—I know it; but where's the fun?

So they decided to go down to Olcovich Bros. and do some trading. People find it to their advantage to buy Shoes, Dry Goods, Groceries, etc., at Olcovich Bros., and then their prices are so low it is almost a pleasure to do so.

Among the incidents of childhood that stand out in bold relief, as our memory reverts to the days when we were young, none are more prominent than severe sickness. The young mother vividly remembers that it was Chamberlain's Cough Remedy cured her of croup, and in turn administers it to her own offspring and always with the best success. For sale by G. C. Thaxter.

How Can Parents

allow their children to cough and strain and cough and calmly say: "Oh! it's only a little cold," and keep giving them cheap and dangerous medicines, until they are down with lung fever or consumption, when they can be so easily relieved by BEGG'S CHERRY COUGH SYRUP? It has no superior and few equals. W. H. Chedic, Druggist.

What on Earth

Is the reason people will not, cannot, or do not see any difference in cheap nos trums put up by Cheap John houses or irresponsible parties at enormous profits, rather than take a medicine of world wide reputation and one that is giving universal satisfaction at equal price? No medicine in the world is giving such unparalleled satisfaction for purifying the blood as BEGG'S BLOOD PURIFIER & BLOOD MAKER, and every bottle that does not do its work, will cost you nothing. W. The wild and woolly West is sometimes blamed by the virtuous East for its alleged gambling and speculative propensities. But when one reads of the cyclones on the inland prairies and the storms on the Atlantic coast, he sees it is on the Eastern side of the Rocky mountains that the most wealth is "blown in."—Grass Valley Tidings.

The Word "Sierra."

Some of the Coast editors are defending the plural use of the word "Sierras" on the ground that we speak of the "Rockies."

Rocky is an English word and can properly be used in the plural with a final "s." Sierra is in itself a plural word and it needs nothing more.

It is plural just as the word strata is the plural of stratum. The man who talks of "the Sierras" will naturally say hippotamuses instead of hippopotami or memorandums instead of memoranda.

In a recent article in the Youths Companion, on "How to cure a cold," the writer advises a hot lemonade to be taken at bed time. It is a dangerous treatment, especially during the severe cold weather of the winter months, as it opens the pores of the skin and leaves the system in such condition that another and much more severe cold is almost certain to be contracted. Many years constant use and the experience of thousands of persons of all ages, has fully demonstrated that there is nothing better for a severe cold than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It acts in perfect harmony with nature, relieves the lungs, liquefies the tough tenacious mucus, making it easier to expectorate, and restores the system to a strong and healthy condition. ALKALI LANDS.

How They can be Reclaimed with Proper Care.

A bulletin issued by Professor E. W. Hilgard from the Agricultural Experiment Station at the University of California gives some valuable directions for the treatment of "alkali lands." Professor Hilgard points out that the alkali, so called, is an evidence of the peculiar richness of the soils in plant foods. The salts of potash and soda which make up the alkali of California are the products of the "weathering away" of the soil. But in most soils the soda salts are leached out by the rains and are carried to the sea. In the San Joaquin and other parts of the State, says the Examiner, the rainfall is small and the drainage bad. The salts are not carried off as fast as they are produced. The soil is never leached out and the salts accumulate from year to year. The evaporation of the moisture from the ground leaves the salts held in solution as a deposit on the surface, causing the "rise of the alkali" on the lands during the dry season.

The remedy, as the University bulletin points out, follows from the cause. It is to be found by washing out the soils by irrigation and draining the water away from beneath into the rivers and to the sea.

How this is to be done is in most cases a question for local discussion. The object cannot be accomplished by merely putting water on the soil. Such an expedient has naturally failed, unless at the same time it is drained off from beneath. Otherwise the alkali has remained in the soil and has reappeared on the surface as a deposit, with the evaporation of the water that held it in solution. If the water is taken off by under-drainage, however, it is possible to leach out soils so that the alkali will not reappear for ages.

In many of the alkali districts of this State and in most of the alkali districts of California an effective system of under-drainage is beyond the means of individuals. To reclaim the lands co-operation is necessary. The manner in which California is solving the irrigation problem suggests the method to be pursued in reclaiming alkali lands. Drainage districts may prove as effective as irrigation districts when once the true value of the alkali land is seen.

The excellence of these soils so long thought worthless and given over to desolation is becoming appreciated little by little. Where water has been brought to them by accident or intelligent design has given an under drainage that has carried off the soda salts, their fertility has been wonderful. The immigrants who toiled across the alkali plains of Nevada and cursed them as regions of despair would be amazed at the sight of crops grown where water has been brought to the desert. The day when a large part of these rich lands will be made productive is sure to come, and the men who have intelligence and enterprise to carry out the work will reap the first reward of it.

The Relic of a Pioneer.

Who remembers William Frank Stewart of Eldorado county, Cal? We never knew him, know nothing of his life or his fate, or whether he lives or is dead. But up in Placer county is a cracked pane of glass that was set in a pioneer's pine log cabin in 1843, on Hangton creek. Inside that cabin, in the silent watches, what memories come to men of parents, of wife and babies, in the far land beyond many mountains and deserts, and what dreams come in on the sunbeams of morning through that single pane of glass. On it Stewart, in after years, scratched these lines:

Touch me gently, friend of mine,
I'm all that's left of '49;
Many a long-forgotten face
Hath pressed me, in my good old place;
Many a heart, e'er true and warm,
Hath watched through me the coming stern.
A moral on my face is cast
Which all must truly learn at last;
Man's hopes and fears are all, alas!
Like me, a broken pane of glass.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS

Proceedings of the Board Yesterday.

Yesterday the Board of County Commissioners met and audited the usual bills.

A bill of $72 from a hotel for the board of a man who was injured on the railroad was rejected on the ground that the man who was injured belonged to a R. R. Benevolent Society, and the society should pay his bills when he was injured.

The question of paying the special election bills was brought up.

The District Attorney gave it as his opinion that the bills should be paid by the county as originally audited, and that the county should demand payment of the State as did Lyon county under similar circumstances.

It was finally agreed that the District Attorney should confer today with the State Board and see if it was willing to pay the bills without further litigation.

The County Board will hold a special meeting next Monday to take action.

Oliver Roberts, proprietor of the Arlington House came before the Board to ascertain the liability of boarding houses to pay license. He claimed that there were private boarding houses in the city sending people out to solicit custom and that they were offering cheaper inducements than regular hotels who paid $18 a quarter license.

He thought that the boarding houses which were run as a money-making business should pay license.

The Board asked the opinion of the District Attorney who held that the law regarding the license applied to boarding houses and in the case of Cody vs. McDonald, 14, Lansing, My., pages 434-36-37 the Court had ruled as follows: "A boarding-house is a house where the business of keeping boarders is generally carried on and what is held out by the owners or keepers as a place where boarders are kept."

The Board held that all boarding houses where the keeping of boarders was general must pay license and the Sheriff will be instructed to collect.

Board adjourned.

National Teacher's Institute.

The National Educational Association and Council of Education have decided to hold their next Annual Conventions at St. Paul, Minnesota, July 4th to 11, 1890. Hon. James H.
